

ASIKO TV

THE SOUL OF AFRICA

— THE TEAM

A media house, not a side project

Asiko TV is built by the Media Icons Africa team — a bench across the four functions a FAST platform needs: technology, content, commercial, and legal & finance.

Media Icons Africa

Lagos-based media and sports-marketing company, led by John Upah. Recent work includes appointment as marketing consultants for the Sportsville Special Recognition Awards ahead of 2027. Asiko TV / FAST-On-Africa is the company's FAST OTT venture.

This corrects an earlier framing in the documents. Asiko is not a founder with an AI assistant — it is a staffed team with named leads in every division. The "tiny team" weakness in the SWOT is retired accordingly.

Completing this page

LinkedIn blocks automated access, so profile data can't be pulled in directly — and bios for named people won't be invented. To finish this page, for each person send:

- ♦ Full name and preferred title
- ♦ Their LinkedIn "About" text (or a 2–3 sentence bio) — it will be edited to a consistent house style
- ♦ LinkedIn URL and any relevant past roles / companies
- ♦ Headshot (optional) — can be added later

Paste them in any format; they'll be slotted into the right division and matched in tone.

Why this matters

- ♦ For investors: the risk question "who builds and runs this?" is answered — named leads in technology, content and commercial, with legal and finance forming. Not a one-person bet.
- ♦ For content owners: a real content team with industry standing, not a tech company guessing at programming.
- ♦ For advertisers: a commercial team led by a 30-year media-sales operator — the category-exclusive sponsorship model is sold by people who have sold at this level before.
- ♦ For the build: four in-house technology people means the MVP and beyond are executed by the team, not dependent on any single outside party.
